

The last date to order from the IEC AV/Computer Co-op catalog is February 24th.

At that time all pricing expires. We anticipate that our Spring 2006 catalog will be online April 3, 2006 and plan to post a "Basic" listing of products on the Co-op website by the middle of March. This list of products and prices is intended to help those customers who need to make purchasing decisions before April.

If you need pricing before the middle of March, please contact us with a list of your needs along with the quantity of each item you wish to purchase and we will get back to you ASAP with pricing.

We have been working on making changes to the AV Co-op website which should make it easier to navigate and easier to find the products you want to purchase. We are also working to enable Foxfire and Safari users to be able to login and use the co-op website. These improvements are a result of us getting feedback from customers who participated in our AV Co-op survey.

Contact us if you need assistance.
